IRISH CONVENTION.

Formation of the Irish National League of America.

Business Concluded in Harmony and Great Enthusiasm.

Full Text of Resolutions Adopted Officers Elected.

PHILADELPHIA, April 27.—It was nearly eleven before the Irish national convention assembled this morning. Dr. O'Reilly announced that the committee on resolutions had prepared their report but were not yet ready to present it.

Colonel Michael Boland, chairman of the committee on organization, said he would not be ready to report until after the committee on resolutions had reported, as the committee on organization had not been able to agree on the number of officers for the national league, or its scheme of government.

The secretary then read a communication from Hon. S. S. Cox of New York, congratulating the convention on what it had achieved and declaring that it was impossible for Ireland to remain under British government on account of commercial restrictions of the latter. Agitation for liberty will go on. A motion tendering thanks to Cox was carried.

Father Boylan, of County Cavan, Ireland, then addressed the convention amid much applause. He said that now John Bull would be put on one horn of the Irish dilemma and the landlord on the other while Pat would milk the cow. He complimented the spirit in which the American press treated the Irish question. America had given Irishmen employment. They had participated in America's hardest work on the fields of both peace and war. The entire convention arose to its feet and cheered Father Boylan simultaneously.

At noon recess was taken for two hours to await the reports of committees.

Following is the report of the committee on resolutions:

The Irish-American people assembled in convention submit to the intelligence and reason of their fellow men that the duty of a government is to preserve the lives of the governed, to defend their liberty, to protect their property, to maintain peace or order, to allow each portion of the people an equitable and efficient voice in legislation, and to promote general welfare by wise, just and humane laws. We solemnly declare, and cite unquestioned history and universal knowledge of living men in testimony thereof:

First—That the English government has existed in Ireland not to preserve the lives of the government but to destroy them. Entire communities it wantonly massacred by the sword. To the asylums of terrified women it deliberately applied the blazing torch. Unto helpless towns it has discharged deadly bombs and shells. Through consecrated crypts, where age and infancy sought shelter, it has sent its bloody butchers. The sacred persons of venerable priests it has stretched upon the rack or suspended from the gibbet. Pulling babes have been impaled on the points of its bayonets. Its gold has been folded in the hand of the assassin and has rewarded the infamy of the perjured traitor. Its treacherous falsehood has lured patriots to unsuspected death. As if the sword cannon, torch, scaffold, dagger, and explosives were not enough, it enjoys the unique infamy of being the only government known to ancient or modern times which has employed famine for the destruction of those from whom it claimed allegiance, forcibly robbing the Irish people of the fruits their own toil produced by their own labor. It has buried not a hundred, not a thousand, but more than a million of the Irish race, unshrouded, uncoffined in the grave of hunger. It has mercilessly compelled other millions in compulsory poverty to seek in alien lands the bread they were entitled to in their own. There is no form of cruelty known to the lowest savage which it has not practiced on the Irish people in the name of the highest civilization. There is no device of fiendish ingenuity it has not adopted to reduce their numbers. Within two years it has massacred children and women, the victims of its licensed ruffians. There is no species of destructive attack, however insidious or violent, ancient or modern, rude or scientific, whether directly against life or matter in any part of the globe, for which its barbarities in Ireland have not furnished an example. There is no form of retaliation to which despair or madness may resort for which English cruelty in Ireland is not exclusively responsible.

Second.—We declare the English government in Ireland has not defended the liberty of its people but has annihilated it. The statutes enacted since the invasion amount to a series of coercion laws, framed to deprive its citizens of all vestiges of personal freedom and reduce them to outlawry in order to confiscate their property and compel them to flee to foreign lands. Since the beginning of the present century, when the Irish parliament was abolished, laws for Ireland have been made in England and during that period a habeas corpus and right of trial by jury have been suspended more than fifty times. Hordes of soldiers have been loosed upon a people forbidden to bear arms, and a state of war, with all its attendant horrors, with occasionally those of retaliation, has been maintained. To-day representatives of the people are in prison guiltless of crime. Freedom of speech is abolished; freedom of the press is abolished; the right of peaceable public meeting is annulled; no man's house is secure night or day from armed marauders, who may insult and harrass his family. Without a warrant a citizen may be thrown into prison without counsel; he may be put on mock trial before a prejudiced judge and packed jury or lying wretches. His liberty may be sacrificed or his life taken in the name of the law.

Third.—Instead of protecting the property of the people, the English government in Ireland has been conspicuously working for the injury and ruin of 20,000,000 of acres of producing land. The iniquitous system of taxation imposed on the people a gigantic burden for the maintenance of a foreign army, for an oppressive constabulary, for salaries to supernumerary officials and place men, for pensions to English favorites, for blood money for informers and for a vulgar court whose extravagance is equaled only by some of its pretensions.

Resolved, That we pledge our unqualified and constant support, moral and material, to our countrymen-in-Ireland in their efforts to recover national self-government; and in order to more effectually promote this object by the consolidation of all our resources and the creation of one responsible authority to speak for the greater Ireland in America that all societies represented in this convention, and all that may hereafter comply with the conditions of admission, be organized into a national league of America, for the purpose of supporting the Irish national league of Ireland, of which Charles Stewart Parnell is president.

Resolved, That we heartily endorse the noble sentiment of Bishop Butler of Limerick, that every stroke of Forster's savage lash was a new proof of Parnell's worth and an additional title for him to the condolence and gratitude of his countrymen.

Resolved, That we sympathize with the laborers of Ireland in their efforts to improve their condition; and as we have sustained the farmers in their assaults upon the landlords' garrison we now urge upon the farmers justice and humane consideration for laborers, and we demand that farmers allow laborers a fair day's wages for a day's work.

Resolved, That as the manufactures of Great Britain are the chief source of her material greatness, already declining under the influence of American competition, we heartily counsel our friends not to purchase in England that which they can procure in Ireland or France, and we pledge ourselves to promote Irish manufactures by encouraging their importing to America, and to use the utmost endeavor, by plain statements of facts and discrimination in patronage, to persuade American tradesmen from keeping English goods on sale.

Resolved, That an English ministry, ostentatiously liberal, has earned the contempt and denunciation of fair-minded men throughout the world by imprisoning more than 1,000 citizens of Ireland without accusation or trial, a number of whom were noble-hearted women engaged in works of mercy among evicted victims of landlord rapacity.

Resolved, That the policy of the English government in first reducing the Irish peasantry to abject poverty and then sending them penniless to the United States, dependent upon American charity, is unnatural, inhuman, and an outrage on the American government and people. We respectfully direct the attention of the United States government to this iniquity, protest against its continuance and instruct officials who shall be chosen by this convention to present our protest to the president of the United States and respectfully but firmly urge upon the president that it is the duty of the United States to decline to support paupers whose pauperism began under and is the result of English misgovernment, and to demand of England that she send no more of her paupers to these shores to become a burden upon the American people.

Resolved, That this convention welcomes the sturdy and undaunted patriot and prudent custodian, Patrick Egan, who, to protect land league funds from the robber hand of the English government, voluntarily abandoned his private business and accepted a long exile in foreign lands, the integrity of whose guardianship has been certified after minute examination. Grateful for his invaluable service, his countrymen rejoice that they possess on this important occasion the advantage of his wise and experienced counsel and are proud to welcome him to their hearts and their homes.

The reading of the report was punctuated by hearty applause. At the arraignment of the English government in the first resolution the entire convention rose and cheered. The resolutions were adopted amid some confusion.

The report of the committee on organization was then read, as follows:

WHEREAS, In the opinion of the citizens of America and Canada, Irish and of Irish descent, it is needful for the purpose hereinafter set forth, that, sinking all private prejudices and creed distinctions, they do unite to secure their common end, do band themselves together under the name and title of the Irish National League of America.

ARTICLE I—The objects of the Irish National League of America are:

1. To earnestly endeavor to sustain the Irish league in hand with moral and material aid in achieving self-government for Ireland.

2. To procure a clearer and more accurate understanding by the American people of the political and industrial condition of Ireland.

3. To promote the development of Irish manufacturers and the study of Irish history.

4. To encourage the study of the Irish language, the cultivation of Irish music and characteristics.

5. To hurt the enemy where he will feel it most by refusing to purchase any article of English manufacture and by using every legitimate means for keeping English manufactures from sale.

6. To abolish sectional feeling, to destroy those animosities of creed which have been insidiously handed down and to keep alive and holy Irish nationality while performing faithfully the duties of American citizenship.

Other sections of the report of the committee on organization name the officers, provide the manner of their election and prescribe their duties. The report was adopted.

Alex Sullivan of Chicago, then took the floor. Thomas Bracken of New York at the same time arose among so-called dynamite men in the rear of the hall and earnestly protested against the proceedings. He was at once surrounded by a clamorous crowd of delegates, the chair in the meantime pleading for order. Finally the dynamite men were quieted down and Sullivan nominated Rev. Dr. Charles O'Reilly as treasurer of the new league. Col. Boland seconded the motion and Father O'Reilly was elected by acclamation.

Father Conoly nominated for president, Major John Byrne, of Cincinnati. Colonel Boland nominated for president of the national league, Alexander Sullivan. His name was greeted with wild applause. Upon balloting Sullivan received the greatest number of votes, and on motion of Byrne, his principal competitor, the election of Sullivan was made unanimous.

Sullivan coming upon the stage said he could not do justice to the position, and was compelled to most respectfully but firmly decline the honor. The action of the convention would send a thrill of delight into every Irish home, and a shock of terror to the British parliament and the perjured chambers of Dublin castle.

Sullivan's declination was laid on the table and Major Byrne was elected vice president and John Hyne secretary.

Alice Gallagher announced that the Fanny Parnell branch, of St. Louis, sent through her its check for $850 for the starving people of Ireland. Miss Gallagher, of St. Louis, stated that the Ladies' Land League of St. Louis presented through her a check for $7,000. She knew the women of the league could keep the wolf from the door. She looked to the men to keep off the lion.

Father Conoly said Parnell could point to ten million united Irishmen on American shores.

Recess was taken that several delegations might select representatives on the executive committee which was to elect a permanent council of seven for the national league.

Upon reassembling a resolution of esteem for and condolence with Michael Davitt, the father of the land league, incarcerated for the third time in British dungeons, which was unanimously adopted.

It was ordered that a resolution of confidence and cheer be cabled Charles Stewart Parnell.

Mrs. Parnell was introduced and said: Ladies and gentlemen, I have been asked to crown with a wreath of laurels our immortal statesman, legislator and president, George Washington. The position of Ireland to-day is almost similar to that of our country in the revolutionary war and I have inherited a drop of that old blood. I have also inherited Irish blood, which gives an additional claim on you. Mrs. Parnell then placed a wreath of laurels on the bust of George Washington amid great enthusiasm.

After repeated appeals from various members of the convention, Sullivan said he would consent to acting temporarily as servant of the Irish in America, not as their leader.

The chairman then announced that Mrs. Parnell had been elected president of the Ladies' National League of America. He called on F. Sheridan of Chicago to lead in singing, "God Save Ireland." The song was sung, the convention rising and joining in the chorus. The chairman then declared the convention adjourned.

PHILADELPHIA, April 27.—The executive council of the national league elected, will meet to-morrow. They request societies willing to co-operate with the new organization, to notify the national secretary, John G. Hyne, at Buffalo. There was a large assembly at the Academy of Music to-night in honor of Patrick Egan. Samuel J. Randall and others spoke.

The Thunderer's Views.

LONDON, April 27.—The Times publishes an article strongly favoring trial by judges of men charged with the Phœnix park murders in event of jurors in the case continuing to disagree. It says this would be a particularly unfortunate moment to permit crime to revive.

The Times says the proceedings of the Irish convention at Philadelphia, although ludicrous in some respects, are important when taken in connection with the examination of the dynamite conspirators.

Irish Conspirators on Trial.

DUBLIN, April 27.—A printer named Gibney, charged with conspiracy to murder, was arraigned to-day, together with Eugene Kingston, arrested recently in Liverpool on a charge of conspiracy to murder Poole, a Fenian centre who had turned informer. The man Devine, who was arrested at the time of the affray in Abbey street, when Detective Cox was murdered, and who turned informer, was called to testify against the prisoners. Devine swore that he was a Fenian and stated that several Fenians, among whom was Sullivan, who has been imprisoned as a suspect, and a man named Boland, of Manchester, had condemned Poole to death and had ordered the prisoner Kingston to carry out the sentence.

Fagan Sentenced.

DUBLIN, April 27. The trial of Michael Fagan for the murder of Burke, continued this morning. The case for the defense having closed, Judge O'Brien charged the jury to the effect that testimony given by the informers against the prisoner had been fully confirmed by other witnesses. The judge having finished his charge, the jury retired, and after a short deliberation announced a verdict of guilty. Fagan protested his innocence, declared he was a Fenian and would die one. The judge then sentenced him to be hanged May 18th.

H. & St. Joe Transfer Concluded.

NEW YORK, April 27. Negotiations which have been pending for some time between the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railway and the Gould syndicate controlling the Hannibal & St. Joe were signed and placed in the hands of F. L. Ames in escrow. Two-thirds of the preferred stock and 750,000 shares of common were represented in the transactions. The purchase by the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy involved also the contract with the Western Union Telegraph company extending to all the lines of the railroad company. There had been a question whether the contract with the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy extended to and embraced the leased and new lines, but this had been made by the execution of the new contract.

Diaz's Departure.

ST. LOUIS, April 27.—A special train with the Diaz party arrived this morning and left at 9:30 for New Orleans. They will arrive at Vera Cruz Thursday morning.

GENERAL MATTERS.

Capture of Prof. Bandalier by Apaches Confirmed.

Southern California Indians Committing Depredations.

Heavy Strike of Silver at Silver City Reported.

Bandaher's Capture.

ST. LOUIS, April 27.—A special from Albuquerque regarding the reported capture of Professor Bandalier by Apaches states that Captain William Barchert, his companion, says Bandalier was in Sonora, near Hermosillo, a few days ago and he (Barchert) believes the account of the capture. Bates, who brought the story to Albuquerque, says the Mexican who saw the capture was certain that Bandalier was one of the party, having spoken with him that morning.

Indian Outbreak

SAN FRANCISCO, April 27.—A Guaymas special says, "The Yaqui Indians have attacked Wood's Camp, carrying off stock and other property. It is feared an insurrection of the Yaquis is likely to occur. Federal troops are mostly hunting Apaches on the frontier and the opportunity is good.

Rich Silver Discovery

SANTA FE, April 27.—A Silver City special to the New Mexican says: Excitement regarding the new strike at Cottonwood Springs, seven miles from here is intense. The new lead, which has been found and traced some 700 feet, is more than eight feet wide, with horn silver and chlorides all through. In the immediate vicinity two more strikes are reported, with horn silver in large quantities. A large number of people go out to-day and all old-timers report it as the heaviest strike in silver on record. It is situated west of Hide Bear mountain and easy of access, with wood and water at hand. Miners are pushing there by every means of conveyance. Pieces of solid metal have been brought to town.

Patience at Pueblo

PUEBLO, April 27.—The comic opera Patience was produced in this city to-night by the Pueblo Opera company. The Pueblo opera house was crowded, "standing room only" being the sign displayed at the door before the curtain rose on the first act. The opera was well rendered throughout. Over fifty singers participated. The leading parts were well rendered and the choruses were grand. The company plays at Colorado Springs to-morrow.

A Husband's Vengeance.

CINCINNATI, April 27.—Walter H. Davis, of Harrodsburg, was shot and instantly killed to-day by P. B. Thompson. The deceased was a prominent business man of Harrodsburg and an intimate friend of Thompson's family. This friendship was made stronger by his marriage with a close friend of Phil B. Thompson, jr. Mrs. Thompson acquired the habit of using strong intoxicants from using liquors some years ago, when recovering from illness. When Thompson started for Washington last November, Mrs. Thompson accompanied him to Cincinnati, but was to go home the same night. She met Davis in the street. He supplied her with liquor, took her to the St. Clair hotel to his room. Later in the night the watchman found her lying in the corridor. The proprietor would have put her in the street but for recognition by his wife. She was put in Miss Buckner's room. The next morning she was overwhelmed with shame on discovering her disgrace and left the hotel. Mr. Buckner wrote to Thompson telling his wife's disgrace, but said nothing of Davis' conduct, whereupon Thompson refused to further recognize her as his wife. Last Tuesday on his return from Washington, Mr. Thompson first heard in Cincinnati of Davis' part in his wife's disgrace. To-day he met Davis for the first time since his return. The latter had opened the door of the car in which Thompson was about to take a seat and saluted him. Thompson with an oath said, "How dare you speak to me," and immediately drew a pistol. Davis attempted to draw but changed his mind and pulled the door shut. As Davis was going down the steps Thompson fired and Davis fell dead, rolling down an embankment. The train stopped and Thompson got off, saying he would go back to Harrodsburg to give himself up. He returned on the train that carried the dead body of Davis. Going to the court house he addressed the judge, saying it was not customary in his situation to make remarks but he felt it due to himself and to the community to state the facts leading to this result. He then detailed the facts of his wife's disgrace and ruin at the hands of the deceased, who knew her unfortunate weakness for liquor, adding, "My domestic relations are bankrupt, my daughter exiled from home. Not all his blood is worth her tears. I throw myself on the justice of my countrymen." When he finished, Judge Harding said it was not proper for him, as judge, to express sympathy. He felt as a man would. Mr. Thompson was held in $5,000 to answer to the grand jury. The bond was given and Mr. Thompson released.

Railroad Collision.

DETROIT, April 27.—A collision occurred on the Grand Trunk railway, near Olive station, between a regular passenger train and a freight train following it. The latter crashed into the rear of the passenger, demolishing two Pullmans, killing the conductor of the Pullman and two or three passengers. Ten or twelve passengers were injured.

DETROIT, April 27.—Fuller details of the accident on the Grand Trunk confirm previous reports. The passenger train had been obliged to stop on account of the breakage of a pipe connected with the air brake. The freight train was a heavy one, close behind, and the warning was so brief, with the train driving with a great weight on a down grade, that the brakemen were unable to bring it to a stop. Two Pullmans were wrecked, one ground to atoms. Three men were killed. The list of the wounded are: W. W. Page, of Chicago, ribs broken, spine injured; will probably die; R. F. Budd colored porter of the Pullman car, Chicago, scalded from head to toes, fractured thigh, condition critical; F. H. Pierce, Flint, Mich, hands badly scalded, cut badly; J. H. Ballagh, Rockwell City, Iowa, and wife, both scalded; A. H. Welder, Rochester, N. Y., hand burned; A. Hobson, East Saginaw, Mich., badly burned; Miss Margaret Carey, Ottawa, Ont., burned. Howard Thomas, civil engineer [illegible] St. Paul & Manitoba railway, home at [illegible], Vermont, head bruised and burned or scalded, painful. Conductor Wall died at the scene of the accident. A later dispatch says it is feared Mr. and Mrs. Ballagh are seriously injured. Everything possible is being done for the wounded at Battle Creek, whither they were all taken.

Protesting Against Chinese

SAN FRANCISCO, April 27.—The Bulletin this afternoon publishes a letter from Swearingen, the Hawaiian consul at this port, stating that at a meeting of the Hawaiian cabinet a resolution was adopted that in view of the influx of male Chinese, the minister of foreign affairs was authorized to notify Hong Kong authorities that the Hawaiian government protests against excessive immigration of men alone.

Hangman's Day.

ELIZABETHTOWN, N. Y., April 27.—Henry DeBosny, hanged here to-day for the murder of his wife, slept well last night, ate a hearty breakfast this morning, after which he smoked a cigar and then inspected the gallows, taking hold of which he said to the sheriff: "I am afraid I'll break that rope." He seemed entirely indifferent to his fate.

Fatal Attempt at Rescue

JERSEY CITY, April 27.—Mrs. Jane Anthony, of New York, crossed the railroad track as the express was entering the city. Lawrence O'Brien, switchman, attempted to save her but she insisted and both fell upon the track. The woman died immediately. O'Brien died about ten minutes after being struck. O'Brien lost a leg a short time ago rescuing a child.

"PATIENCE."

Pueblo's Songsters at the Opera House To-night.

One of the most taking comic operas of the day, Gilbert and Sullivan's "Patience," will be produced at the opera house to-night by the Pueblo opera company. This company is composed of the best amateur talent of Pueblo, aided by Miss Lizzie Frost, of this city. This opera has never before been produced in Colorado Springs, although it has been frequently burlesqued. Miss Frost consented to assume one of the leading characters in the cast at Pueblo without recompense, and in return the Pueblo folks agreed to present the opera at Colorado Springs for her benefit. They bring with them a cast of over fifty voices, together with a full orchestra.

Patience	Mrs. E. K. Alden
Lady Jane	Miss Lizzie Frost
Lady Angela	Miss Amelia Free
Lady Saphir	Miss Jennie Wilson
Lady Ella	Miss Howe
Bunthorne	S. B. Reed
Grosvenor	E. W. Corwin
Col Calverley	A. H. Speer
Major Murgatroyd	A. H. Greig
Lord Dunstable	Charles Wells
Bunthorne's Solicitor	E. A. Alden

The fact that Miss Frost is shortly to leave for Cincinnati to acquire a complete musical education, has been heretofore mentioned in the columns of the GAZETTE. To aid in paying the expenses of her course of studies the benefit was suggested. Every one can but acknowledge that Miss Frost has always willingly consented to sing in all local concerts in Colorado Springs as well as at private musicals, and in recognition of these services she should be given a liberal benefit.

MINING MATTERS.

Notes Gleaned from Our Exchanges.

Leadville Chronicle.

EXORBITANT ROYALTIES FOR LEASES.

There has probably never been such a rage for leasing mining property as exists at present in Leadville. The demand for leases has had and is still having its natural effect, namely, a demand for an exorbitant per cent. on the part of many mine owners and companies for the privilege of working their properties. But it is a mistaken idea both on the part of the lessors and the lessees. It is a mistake on the part of the lessees, because the lessor who agrees to pay over twenty-five per cent. either does not know anything about mining or else he intends to get the best of the lessee in some unfair manner. The result will be a lawsuit, for there are numberless excuses that a lessor can make for not paying the royalty, when he finds that he has agreed to pay too much. He will say to the owner, the drift was in bad condition and had to be retimbered, or there was water in the workings, of which you should have notified me, or the mine was not what you represented it to be, or a hundred other excuses, which will result in a law suit and a demand for $5,000 or $10,000 damages as the case may be. The owner will then see his position and be glad to forego the royalty altogether in order to get clear of his troublesome lessors. There are parties in the camp who are paying as high as 41 per cent. royalty and we have heard of one that is paying 50 per cent. These are certainly exorbitant rates, and the lessor that can make any profit at this rate, without defrauding their owner, will not fall far short of performing a miracle.

Mine owners who demand such rates as these do not have their eyes open to their own interest. If the lessee takes a lease at a rate that will not pay, he either throws it up as soon as he learns the fact, or tries to make his profit out of the owner by foul means.

Some of the more experienced mine owners in the camp are awake to these facts, and prefer to let their property at a royalty at which the lessee can honestly profit, rather than demand a rate that no man can pay. We know of one instance in which a leading mining company was offered thirty-five per cent for a lease. They refused the offer and leased the same property for twenty-five per cent. A prominent mine owner in Clear Creek has leased a large portion of his property at fifteen per cent., when he might have demanded and obtained three times that amount; but he knew that unless his lessors could make something out of the lease, he would certainly be loser.

It is certainly a great benefit to the mine owners to lease their properties, and have them developed; but it is a great mistake to demand the royalty that some of them about Leadville are getting. It is only opening the door for a large amount of costly litigation, hindrance to the work, etc., when, if they had leased their mines for a fair royalty, the lessor would have been satisfied with his bargain, and the owner would have had his property developed and made a fair profit at the same time, and would have probably been saved a large amount of money spent in litigation.

A HILL OF MYSTERIES WHICH HAS PRODUCED OVER A MILLION DOLLARS

Georgetown Courier.

The division between Saxon and Griffith mountains is the lateral rayine known as Taylor gulch, near the old Stewart reduction works. This gulch throws the Magnet group of mines properly on Saxon mountain, although they are usually spoken of as Griffith mountain mines. The north end of Saxon mountain is separated from Columbian mountain by Beaver creek, the mouth of which is just below the Alvarado cemetery, and about two and a half miles from Taylor gulch.

There are two principal groups of mines on this mountain, known as the Magnet and Anglo-Saxon groups. The Magnet group includes the Summit Co.'s properties, the Sequel, Pickwick, East Victor, Badger State, New Brunswick, Charter Oak, Huntington and a number of others. The mines operated in this group have been doing little but development work for some months, and have produced through this class of work 69,347 pounds of ore, representing a coin value of $7,800, since January 1. We hear that the development work has already opened fully $100,000 worth of ore. Three-quarters of a mile north of the Magnet group are the Anglo-Saxon, Federal, Master Key, Silver Star, Algonquin and others. Three mines in this group have produced 750,000. The ore is of exceedingly high grade, there being a large quantity of silver glance and silver black disseminated through it. But little of the mountain north of the Saxon group has been prospected excepting the developments made on the line of the Cosmopolite tunnel. Small quantities of ore have been mined from various other mines on this mountain since the first of January, among them being the Dunbarton, which has but recently commenced to produce. This property promises to produce steadily and largely as soon as sufficiently developed.

BOULDER COUNTY.

Boulder Banner.

Mr. Livermash shows us a chunk of ore from a property at Caribou belonging to himself, E. W. Dickinson and Rufus Gray—the Little Eddie. It is a specimen from the vein which at 10 feet yielded assays of 140 to 340 ounces in silver. This is a remarkable showing at that depth. The prospect is six feet between walls. At the same place the Grant County is being worked by Messrs. Donald, White and others and is producing ore which runs from 1,000 to 1,600 ounces of silver. The Burger brothers are meeting with satisfactory results in the development of the Silver Star, one of the high grade mines of that region. A month ago a leasing party began operations on the Great Republic, and are now producing good ore and in profitable quantities. William Gray has a lease on Colonel Ellet's property, the Belcher, and is said to be doing finely with it. Mr. Livermash styles Neil McKenzie's Pearman "a bonanza."

At Gold Cliff, at a point just above Langdell's, is situated the Grand Central mine, owned by J. J. Ritchey. Messrs. Anderson & Berger, lessees, shipped to the Golden sampling works Saturday a lot of ore, the result of one man's labor for thirty-six days, and of 8 feet of sinking. Following are the returns: First-class, 1,458 ounces gold, 179 ounces silver; second-class, 176 ounces gold and 37 ounces silver; third-class, 30 ounces gold, 11 ounces silver. Mr. Ritchey feels confident that he has a bonanza, and certainly a mine that yields $1,196 in 8 feet of sinking falls little short of such designation. It cost less than $100 for the work involved in extracting this ore, and netted the lessees $1,000 after having paid to Mr. Ritchey a royalty of 10 per cent. The same party owns the Poorman's Relief and the Golden Star mines in the same locality. He has additional territory for leases at 10 per cent. on the properties

THE OUTLOOK.

Leadville Herald.

There never was a season which opened so propitiously among the mines of Lake county as the present. Hundreds of prospects adjacent to the camp, which, through inability to work on the part of the owners, owing to financial embarrassment, absence or other causes, are being operated under leases, and hills and gulches which have never before been producers, are adding to the output of the camp. Prospects in supposed barren territory have been developed to pay and are now producing. Instead of one or two or perhaps half a dozen particular hills producing mineral, as heretofore, development is proving that wherever porphyry and blue lime underlay the wash mineral exists and in quantities larger and fully as high in grade as have ever come from either Carbonate, Fryer or Iron hills. In fact the entire county between Leadville and the Mosquito range, seems to carry mineral and only require sufficient development to produce it. The smelters are over-crowded with ore, and will be compelled to increase their capacity or see competitive concerns start up. New and improved methods of concentrating ores are being put into practical operation, and although not successful in all cases, many varieties of ore which have hitherto been of no value on account of the grade, are now being mined and concentrated at a fair profit. Several new mills are in course of erection and will be in operation during the summer, thus increasing the product of the camp by the addition of the free-milling ores from the range west of the Arkansas river. New processes in smelting are being tested, and wherever a method is found for reducing the cost of treatment one dollar per ton, thousands of tons of ore are brought to a marketable basis. Development work and the tribute system are bringing "played out" Leadville before the world in a new and more prosperous guise than ever before, and there is more money in Lake county to-day, despite the small pox scare and the efforts of other misguided persons and the states to traduce her, than ever before, even in the palmiest days of the inaugural boom.

Manager of the GAZETTE.

The latest report of failures for the United States and Canada is 183, 23 less than last week.

The bill prohibiting treating was beaten in the Pennsylvania senate, and an eight hour law was beaten in the house.

Michael Fagan was yesterday sentenced to be hung for taking part in the Phœnix Park murder. The date set for the execution is May 8 almost exactly a year after the murder.

Congressman S. S. Cox, of New York, sent his congratulations to Irish convention at Philadelphia. Such exhibitions of feeling on the part of politicians is more then likely to be questioned.

We hope that the Philadelphia Irish convention may do much good, especially by saving Ireland from the extremists. But whether it does anything else, it has certainly produced some glorious rhetoric.

The National Christian association has started the presidential race by entering the Rev Jonathan Blanchard as a candidate for the nation's highest place. He is a man of ability, but his chances of election do not seem very flattering.

Ex-Senator William A. Wallace, of Pennsylvania, has sometimes been called "Coffee Pot" Wallace. The origin of the name was a charge that he had steeped naturalization papers in coffee to give them the appearance of age. He has been repeatedly charged with forging naturalization papers. In a recent letter he makes a decided denial of this charge of forgery, and we suppose the "coffee pot" charge is only a part of the same thing.

The Irish are an excitable people. Justin McCarthy, an Irishman himself, in belief, and certainly a warm sympathizer with the Irish has given in his History of Queen Anne's Times a comparison between the English agitation under Cobden and Bright for the repeal of the corn laws, and the Irish agitation under Daniel O'Connell for the repeal of the union. One was cool and business-like, the other dealt largely in sentiment. One appealed to reason, the other to the feelings and passions of an excitable race, feelings and passions which O'Connell played on with a master hand. It seems then a very natural thing to read that "the entire [Phila.] convention arose to their feet and cheered Father Boylan simultaneously." No doubt this excitable quality of the race has always stood in the way of successful agitation.

The bulletin of the American Iron and steel association recently gave these causes for the ignorance of the American voting population. "The influence of certain New York and Chicago newspapers, the influence of New England colleges, and the scarcity of manufacturing enterprises in the south and west, and the fact that our present generation of voters has come on the stage since 1861, and therefore does not know what the country suffered under the exclusively revenue policy of the preceding fifteen years." As to the first two, a New York paper thinks there is not likely to be any change. Neither the newspapers nor the colleges are likely to go backward. As to the last reason the same paper says that "It would seem at first sight as if it would be an easy thing for protectionists to enlighten 'the young and middle aged men of this generation,' whose appreciation of protection is declining, by acquainting them in detail with the horrors of the fifteen years before 1861. The reason why this is not done becomes very plain, however when one looks at the figures. Between 1850 and 1860 the population grew in the normal American ratio, the exports nearly doubled, the imports nearly doubled (which is more than they have done between 1870 and 1880), and the revenue rose from $40,000,000 in round numbers to over $55,000,000. There are the more prominent indications of national prosperity. The minor ones were equally satisfactory. In fact, the fifteen years before the war were, from the commercial point of view, among the happiest in the national history, and it is not wise for protectionists to call the attention of young or middle-aged men to them."

The New York Nation is edited, we believe, by an Irishman, a German, and an American. We do not know whether the following extract from that paper is Irish, German, or American, but whatever else it may be it seems at least sensible.

When Patrick Egan was asked by the reporter of the Sun the other day his opinion of Brady's conviction, he gave some curious confirmation of what we have been saying of the necessity under which every Irish politician labors of alleging the unfairness of all convictions for agrarian murders and outrages. We presume no intelligent person who knows the history of the case, really doubts that Brady murdered Mr Burke and Lord Frederick Cavendish, but no Irish politician of the nationalist school would dare to say so. We question, in fact, if any of them has ever admitted that a conviction of an agrarian or political criminal was ever fairly obtained. Egan, for instance, gets out of the difficulty by asserting that "the witnesses were bribed by sums varying from $2,500 to $50,000, that the jury was purchased, and that the judge who tried the case was a notorious partisan." He gives no reason, however, and apparently thinks none necessary, for believing Brady unlikely to have committed the murders, but probably, if pressed hard on this point, would insinuate, if not assert, that they were committed by the police to bring discredit on the national cause. This obligation to disbelieve all charges of agrarian or political crime is probably the hardest of all those resting on an Irish politician, to men of education like Parnell and Justin McCarthy it must be very trying.

How a Bird Outwitted the Monkey

Earnest Ingersoll in May St. Nicholas.

"Of all the hanging nests, commend me to that made of grass by the baya sparrow of India. It is one of the most perfect bird houses I know of, and seems only to need a fire-place to make a real house. It is entered through the long neck at the lower end. The bed for the eggs rests in the bulb, or expansion at the middle of the nest, where there are actually two rooms, for the male has a perch divided off from the female by a little partition, where he may sit and sing to her in rainy weather, or when the sun shines very hot, and where he may rest at night. The walls are a firm lattice-work of grass, neatly woven together, which permits the air to pass through, but does not allow the birds to be seen. The whole nest is from fourteen to eighteen inches long, and six inches wide at the thickest part. It is hung low over the water,—why, we shall presently see,—and its only entrance is through the hanging neck.

"Why do birds build hanging nests?"

"Those birds that do make hanging nests, undoubtedly do it because they think them the safest. Bird's eggs are delicacies on the bill of fare of several animals, and are eagerly sought by them. Snakes, for instance, live almost entirely upon them, during the month of June; squirrels eat them, raccoons also, and opossums, cats, rats, and mice. But none of those animals could creep out to the pliant, wavy ends of the willow branches or elm twigs, and cling there long enough to get at the contents of a Baltimore oriole's nest.

"In the country where the baya sparrow lives, there are snakes and opossums, and all the rest of the egg eaters; and in addition there are troops of monkeys, which are more to be feared than all the rest together. Monkeys are wonderfully expert climbers, from whom the eggs, in an ordinary open-top pouch nest, like the oriole's, would not be secure, for if they can get anywhere near, they will reach their long, slender fingers down inside the nest. The baya sparrow discovered this, and learned to build a nest inclosed on all sides, and to enter it from underneath by a neck too long for a monkey to conveniently reach up through. Beside this, she took the precaution to hang it on the very tips of light branches, upon which she thought no robber would dare trust himself. But she found that the monkeys 'know a trick worth two o' that.' They would go to a higher limb which was strong, and one would let himself down from it, grasping it firmly with his hands, then another monkey would crawl down and hold on to the heels of the first one, another would go below him, and so on until several were hanging to each other, and the lowest one could reach the sparrow's treasures. He would eat them all himself, and one by one they would climb up over each other, and last of all the tired first one, who had been holding up all the rest would get up, too, and all would go noisily off in search of fresh plunder, which, I suppose, would be given to a different one, the rest making a ladder for him as before.

Now the cunning baya sparrow saw a way to avoid even this dangerous trickery. She knew that there was nothing a monkey hated so terribly as to get his sleek coat wet. He would rather go hungry. So she hung her nest over the water close to the surface, and the agile thieves do not dare make a chain long enough to enable the last one to reach up into her nest from below, as he must, for fear that the springy branches might bend so far as to souse them into the water.

"The sparrow has fairly outwitted the monkey!"

Women and Commercial Gambling

The Spectator.

Undoubtedly, of all careers which are likely to unsex women, that of staking considerable stakes on the results of a complicated series of dubious commercial events seems to us the the most likely to produce the effect. Impersonal excitements which depend for their interest on heavy pecuniary risks can hardly be really good for any human being. But if they must be undergone by any human being at all, certainly they do least harm to those who have the least susceptibility to finer feelings, who are most impersonal in the whole attitude of their mind, who are nearest to intellectual engines and farthest removed from the life of affections. We have known many men who could run great pecuniary risks with little or no disturbance of their best personal life—and in depreciating the gambling commercial pursuits as morally dangerous, we must not be understood to express any doubt that the equalization of prices which results from calm and wise speculation on a sound basis of capital in the upward or downward movements of stocks and commodities, is of great advantage to the world—but the present writer, at least, has never known a woman to whom it would have been reasonable to attribute the same imperturbability. Nor do we think that if such a woman existed she could be, "in the best sense of the term, feminine." A true woman is utterly vulgarized by having her highest excitements and preoccupations not merely removed from the personal to the purely impersonal world but made dependent on doubtful events containing a large element of chance. That which is best and finest in women will not stand the wear and tear of this kind of life; and though that is true of most men also, it is not so true, and never will be so true, in their case as it is in that of women. The corruption of the higher type, as was long observed, is almost always a worse corruption than the corruption of the lower. Now, women's sensitiveness of perception and liveliness of affection, and that delicacy of tact which arises from sensitive perceptions and lively affections, form unquestionably a much larger proportional part of their whole nature than the same elements form of men's. And as the excitements of commercial gambling—i. e., of speculation on the risks and chances of commerce undoubtedly blunt that sort of sensitiveness and affectionateness and tact, it does much more harm to women than it does to men. And yet, in messing them it bestows upon them nothing of the better masculine life, for we do not count a little addition to the power of wearing a mask through ordinary chances and changes one of the better aspects of masculine life. Just conceive what the turf would become if women were the chief managers of all its tricks and rascalities.

Woman as an Inventor

North American Review.

No assertion in reference to woman is more common than that she possesses no inventive or mechanical genius, even the United States census failing to enumerate her among the inventors of the country. But, while such statements are carelessly or ignorantly made tradition, history and experience alike prove her possession of those faculties in the highest degree. Although woman's scientific education has been grossly neglected, yet some of the most important inventions of the world are due to her. The Hon Samuel Fisher, while commissioner of patents said "Any sketch of American inventions would be imperfect which failed to do justice to the part taken by women." The New York Times, in an editorial upon woman's inventive genius, says "The feminine mind is, as a rule, quicker than the masculine mind, takes hints and sees defects which would escape the average man's attention. Women frequently carry the germs of patents in their head, and cause some rude machine to be constructed which serves their purpose. If women would fix their minds on inventions it is entirely probable that they would surely distinguish themselves in this line far more than they have done hitherto." The Scientific American testifies of the inventions of women for which they solicit patents, that "in their practical character and in their adaption of means to effect a definite purpose, they fully equal the same number of inventions made by men."

Various Causes

Advancing years, care, sickness disappointment and hereditary predisposition all operate to turn the hair gray, and either of them inclines it to shed prematurely. AYER'S HAIR VIGOR will restore faded or gray, light or red hair to a rich brown or deep black, as may be desired. It softens and cleanses the scalp, giving it a healthy action. It removes and cures dandruff and humors. By its use falling hair is checked, and a new growth will be produced in all cases where the follicles are not destroyed or the glands decayed. Its effects are beautifully shown on brashy, weak, or sickly hair, on which a few applications will produce the gloss and freshness of youth. Harmless and sure in its results, it is incomparable as a dressing, and is especially valued for the soft lustre and richness of tone it imparts.

AYER'S HAIR VIGOR is colorless; contains neither oil nor dye, and will not soil or color white cambric, yet it lasts long on the hair, and keeps it fresh and vigorous, imparting an agreeable perfume.

Nothing Short of Unmistakable Benefits

Conferred upon tens of thousands of sufferers could originate and maintain the reputation which AYER'S SARSAPARILLA enjoys. It is a compound of the best vegetable alteratives, with the Iodides of Potassium and Iron, all powerful, blood-making, blood-cleansing and life-sustaining and is the most effectual of all remedies for scrofulous, mercurial, or blood disorders. Uniformly successful and certain, it produces rapid and complete cures of Scrofula, Sores, Boils, Humors, Pimples, Eruptions, Skin Diseases and all disorders arising from impurity of the blood. By its invigorating effects it always relieves and often cures Liver Complaints, Female Weaknesses and Irregularities, and is a potent renewer of waning vitality. For purifying the blood it has no equal. It tones up the system, restores and preserves the health, and imparts vigor and energy. For forty years it has been in extensive use and is to-day the most available medicine for the suffering sick.

By Universal Accord,

AYER'S CATHARTIC PILLS are the best of all purgatives for family use. They are the product of long, laborious, and successful chemical investigation, and their extensive use, by physicians in their practice, and by all civilized nations, proves them the best and most effectual purgative Pill that medical science can devise. Being purely vegetable no harm can arise from their use, and being sugar-coated, they are pleasant to take. In intrinsic value and curative powers no other Pills can be compared with them; and every person, knowing their virtues, will employ them, when needed. They keep the system in perfect order, and maintain in healthy action the whole machinery of life. Mild, searching and effectual, they are especially adapted to the needs of the digestive apparatus, derangements of which they prevent and cure, if timely taken. They are the best and safest physic to employ for children and weakened constitutions, where a mild but effectual cathartic is required.

A Terrible Tragedy

NEW YORK, April 27.—Early this morning William MacDuff, ... street and living at ... Pulaski avenue, shot and killed his wife, his six year old son and himself. The pistol shots were heard by a tenant on the upper floor, who ... they had been all ... fired in the ... and it was two hours later when the tragedy became known. Mrs MacDuff was found lying face downward, with a bullet wound in the back of her head. She was dressed and preparing to breakfast when shot. The boy Willie was in his crib, shot while asleep. MacDuff himself was lying partly dressed, on a bed in the room in which the crib stood. He had shot himself through the mouth. No reason is known for the tragedy. The husband and wife had been married eight years and were supposed to live happily together. The following letter addressed to MacDuff's brother was found

General Mackenzie's Mother Dead

SANTA FE, April 27.—Mrs. Catherine A. Slidell Mackenzie, widow of the late naval commodore, Alex. Slidell Mackenzie, and mother of Brigadier General Ranald S. Mackenzie, commander of military forces in the district of New Mexico, died at the home of her son in this city at 9 o'clock this morning. She was 68 years of age, was noted for her many patriotic acts during the late war as well as her noble charities at home. The remains will be removed to New York, General Mackenzie accompanying them east on Sunday, and will be buried beside the grave of her husband

How Webster Won a Second Fee

Washington Correspondence Boston Traveler

An anecdote of Daniel Webster was told me the other day which will bear repeating. Soon after Webster had started out as a lawyer, a blacksmith called upon him for advice concerning the title to a small estate bequeathed him. As the terms of the will were peculiar, and the kind of estate transmitted doubtful, an attempt was made to annul the will. Webster carefully examined the case, but found that he was unable to give an opinion for the reason that he did not have the proper legal authorities in his possession. He was very much interested in the case, however, and at his own expense he purchased the necessary law books, and in his leisure time studied, and came to the conclusion that his client had the right of the contest. He argued the case when it came to trial, and won it, charging the blacksmith $15 for his services. Years afterwards, when Webster's name was upon every lip, he was traveling from Boston to Washington and stopped over in New York City. Aaron Burr was at that time engaged in arguing a very important case before the state court, and he sought Webster's opinion. Webster heard the facts, and upon being asked if he could mention the law applicable to the case, instantly replied that he could, and then began to quote decisions bearing upon it from the time of Charles II. Burr was amazed and, said "Mr. Webster have you been before consulted in this case?" "Most certainly not," he replied, "I never heard of your case until this evening." "Very well," said Mr. Burr, "proceed." Webster concluded his quotation of authorities, and received from Burr a handsome fee. The secret of Webster's knowledge of the law applicable to Burr's case was that precisely the same principle was involved as in the blacksmith's case of many years before for which he had received but $15.

Trustee's Sale.

Whereas I. J. Wiggin, by his certain deed of trust, dated on the third day of June, A. D. 1876, and recorded in the office of the county clerk and recorder of the county of El Paso, and then territory now state of Colorado, in book 24, on page 45 of the records thereof, on the sixth day June, A. D., 1876, to secure the payment of his certain promissory note, bearing even date with said deed of trust for the principal sum of $500 payable to the order of C. K. Fisher, payable one year after the date thereof with interest thereon from date until paid, at the rate of one and one-half per cent. per month, payable quarterly, did convey to Charles Stockbridge, of the county of El Paso and then territory now state of Colorado, as trustee, all the hereinafter described premises, by which deed of trust it is provided that in case of default in the payment of said note, or any part thereof, or the interest thereon, it may be lawful for the said Charles Stockbridge to advertise and sell the said premises as therein provided. And, whereas, default has been made in the payment of a portion of said note, according to its tenor and effect and in the payment of a portion of the interest upon said note, and the same being now due and unpaid. Now, therefore, I, Charles Stockbridge, trustee as aforesaid, at the request of the legal holder of said note, do hereby give public notice that I shall on Saturday, June 2d, A. D. 1883, at the hour of 10 o'clock a. m. at the front door of the county clerk's office, in the county of El Paso and state of Colorado, sell at public auction to the highest bidder for cash, all the premises in said deed of trust described to wit

The northwest quarter of section fifteen (15), township eleven (11) south of range sixty six (66) west, in the county of El Paso and state of Colorado, together with all and singular the tenements, hereditaments, privileges and appurtenances thereunto belonging, and all the right, title, interest and equity of redemption of the said I. J. Wiggin, his heirs or assigns therein.

HALL'S VEGETABLE SICILIAN HAIR RENEWER is a scientific combination of some of the most powerful restorative agents in the vegetable kingdom. It restores gray hair to its original color. It makes the scalp white and clean. It cures dandruff and humors, and falling-out of the hair. It furnishes the nutritive principle by which the hair is nourished and supported. It makes the hair moist, soft and glossy, and is unsurpassed as a hair dressing. It is the most economical preparation ever offered to the public, as its effects remain a long time, making only an occasional application necessary. It is recommended and used by eminent medical men, and officially endorsed by the State Assayer of Massachusetts. The popularity of Hall's Hair Renewer has increased with the test of many years, both in this country and in foreign lands, and it is now known and used in all the civilized countries of the world

In the Whole History of Medicine

No preparation has ever performed such marvellous cures; or maintained so wide a reputation, as AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, which is recognized as the world's remedy for all diseases of the throat and lungs. Its long-continued series of wonderful cures in all climates has made it universally known as a safe and reliable agent to employ. Against ordinary colds, which are the forerunners of more serious disorders, it acts speedily and surely, always relieving suffering, and often saving life. The protection it affords, by its timely use in throat and chest disorders, makes it an invaluable remedy, to be kept always on hand in every home. No person can afford to be without it, and those who have once used it never will. From their knowledge of its composition and operation, physicians use the CHERRY PECTORAL extensively in their practice, and clergymen recommend it. It is absolutely certain in its healing effects, and will always cure where cures are possible.

STATE OF COLORADO }
County of El Paso } ss

To O H Platt, one of the heirs at law of Georgiana Platt, deceased

Whereas, an instrument in writing purporting to be the last will and testament of Georgiana Platt late of said county, deceased has been presented by Phebe J Losee, of Colorado Springs, El Paso county, Colorado to the county court of said county, for probate, and the 28th day of May, 1883, has been set for hearing the application for the probate of said instrument as the said last will and testament of said Georgiana Platt, deceased and instrument declaring the following described, property viz Lots No seventeen and eighteen (17 and 18) in block No one hundred and eleven (111) in the city of Colorado Springs, El Paso county, Colorado

You are therefore hereby notified to be and appear before the county court of El Paso county at the court house in Colorado Springs on the 28th day of May, A D 1883, there and then to attend the probate of said will before said court.

Witness E A Colburn, Judge of the said county court and the seal thereof, at [SEAL] Colorado Springs, in said county, this 21st day of April, A D 1883.

Common-sense Remedy.

SALICYLICA.

No More Rheumatism, Gout or Neuralgia.

Immediate Relief Warranted.
Permanent Cure Guaranted.

Five years established and never known to fail in a single case, acute or chronic. Refer to all prominent physicians and druggists for the standing of Salicylica.

SALICYLICA.

THE ONLY DISSOLVER OF THE POISONOUS URIC ACID WHICH EXISTS IN THE BLOOD OF RHEUMATIC AND GOUTY PATIENTS

SALICYLICA is known as a common-sense remedy, because it strikes directly at the cause of Rheumatism, Gout and Neuralgia, while so many so-called specifics and supposed panaceas only treat locally the effects

It has been conceded by eminent scientists that outward applications, such as rubbing with oils, ointments, liniments, and soothing lotions will not eradicate these diseases which are the result of the poisoning of the blood with Uric Acid

SALICYLICA works with marvelous effect on this acid and so removes the disorder It is now exclusively used by all celebrated physicians of America and Europe Highest Medical Academy of Paris reports 95 per cent cures in three days.

REMEMBER

that SALICYLICA is a certain cure for RHEUMATISM GOUT and NEURALGIA The most intense pains are subdued almost instantly

Give it a trial. Relief guaranteed or money refunded
